

UIC University of Illinois at Chicago

Department of Psychiatry

Audience: Psychiatrists, Neurologists, and other affiliated professionals interested in mental health

Purpose: To provide current information on research, treatment, and policy issues relating to psychiatry and its adjunct fields.

GRAND ROUNDS

Use of Intermediate Phenotypes in Search of Schizophrenia Genes: Promise and Challenges

Objectives:

1. Review the status of genetic findings in schizophrenia.
2. Explain the concept of intermediate phenotypes and the associated promise and challenge in using these in genetic studies.
3. Discuss smooth pursuit eye movement phenotype and its application in schizophrenia genetic studies.

Gunvant K. Thaker, M.D.

Professor, Department of Psychiatry, Maryland Psychiatric Research Center
University of Maryland School of Medicine, Baltimore, MD

Wednesday
February 3, 2010
1:00 – 2:00 PM

College of Medicine, West
Auditorium, Room 106
1853 West Polk Street
Chicago, IL 60612

The University of Illinois at Chicago (UIC) College of Medicine is accredited by the Accreditation Council for Continuing Medical Education (ACCME) to provide continuing medical education for physicians.

The University of Illinois at Chicago (UIC) College of Medicine designates this educational activity for a maximum of 1 AMA PRA Category 1 Credit(s) TM. Physicians should only claim credit commensurate with the extent of their participation in the activity.

Continuing Education Units (1.0) will be available for Social Workers and affiliated reciprocal agencies. Illinois Board License 159-000112